Access to the port area and the vessels

An access permit must be applied at the Port administration, address: Nõlva 9a, 10416, Tallinn.

Short-term access permit applications shall be made in written or oral form. An application shall contain first name, last name, personal identification code or date of birth, reason of visit and vehicle registration plate number (if in vehicle).

Access permits for over 7 days are dealt with within a week after submission of the application.

Electronic keys and personal access permits are issued at the Port administration (hereinafter referred to as „Petromaks“).

Ship agent send to Petromaks (sadam@petromaks.com) information of vessel's arrival and its time of stay. Petromaks will issue electronic keys to a crew in the amount required for a pedestrian gate for the period of stay.

Permanent vehicle permits are multiuse plastic electronic keys, which drivers can use to open gates to access the Port.

Individuals obtaining the access permits shall fulfil the safety regulations of the Port area, which they have to familiarize themselves with at www.petromaks.ee.

The holder of the personal permit is responsible for its legitimate use. Port administration has the right to suspend or revoke an Access permit if used in a way that is harmful to Petromaks or contrary to the imposed requirements. Each case is considered individually.

Random checks on individuals and vehicles are carried out at the Port areas. Visitors are always required to carry an identity document with them and to show the document to a person carrying out the inspection.

A company may apply for multiple access permits on the same application form. The company is then responsible for issuing the access permits.

If the visit is sporadic or a one-time visit a notice shall be given in advance to the person who has invited the guest.
